

David Outlaw
Manager
Equity Methods

As a Manager at Equity Methods, David Outlaw specializes in valuation, accounting, and design modeling for equity compensation instruments. Throughout his tenure at Equity Methods, he has managed many of the practice's largest and most complex engagements.

Outlaw plays an integral practice development role throughout the firm, contributing to R&D initiatives, thought leadership, training and development, and special projects. In particular, he has played an essential role in client engagements spanning equity compensation award valuation, long-term incentive plan performance goal setting, proxy modeling and messaging, equity award modification design and execution, and merger and spin-out transactions.

Outlaw also plays a leadership role in numerous internal training and mentoring programs and is also one of Equity Methods' most prolific authors and presenters. He holds a B.S. in Finance and a B.S. in Economics, both from Barrett, The Honors College at Arizona State University.
